IN THE COUNTY.

SALT SPRINGS

We have lived in Saline county for nearly thirty years and during that time our reputation for sobriety has never been called in question until the editor of the Malta Bend Qui Viva called us down in a recent issue of his paper. Now it was not our intention to do the people of Malta Bend an injustice by the few remarks we made relative to their moral condition and we hasten to assure them of that fact. We are willing to admit that we did not visit the office of the Qui Viva the day in question, and the fact that the paper came out on time that week, would go to prove that either the editor or his devil had escaped the levy. Furthermore, we have it on good authority that when the residue of the inhabitants who had not been carried away captive saw us riding into town, they came to the reasonable conclusion that we were an other deputy sheriff, and quite naturally "hid out" which, of course, accounts for our hasty conclusion that the town was deserted save by the preachers and postmaster. We propose to stand by that part of our article relative to hitching our horse to the town pump. We will not yield one jot or tittle on that point, and furthermore we assert that we were duly sober at the time. How could we be otherwise when there was not a man in sight to sell us a drink? The town was dry from necessity, and we had therefore to quench our thirst at the aforesaid pump. And right here we would suggest to the people of Malta Bend that if they would patronize the town pump more, and the drug store less, there would be no ground for such charges as made in our other article. We would also remind them that we have established our picket line at Salt Fork and are only waiting for them to have a general "spring cleaning" when we hope to annex the whole territory south of the Missouri river.

Messrs Orr and Brown authorize us to say that they positively will allow no seining in the portion of Salt Branch or any other water on their premises and that persons found fishing there on the Sabbath day will be prohibited from fishing for all time on aforesaid premises.
